In an apartment complex in the exclusive Los Angeles community, Marina Del Rey, are the two young women who toil away, rising at dawn and sleeping in the evening, as well as the occasional afternoon nap. They are the owners of the complex, and their lives revolve around the apartment building and its residents. They are also the source of much frustration for their tenants, who are constantly complaining about the noise and the mess and the lack of attention to the building's needs.

The women are both in their late thirties, and they have been together for over ten years. They are both married to men who work long hours and often have to stay late at the office, and they rely on their female partners to take care of the children and the household. They are both accomplished lawyers, and they are both well-respected in their professional circles. But they are also both struggling to maintain their careers and their personal lives, and they are always on the lookout for new clients and new cases.

The apartment complex is located in a beautiful part of the city, with views of the ocean and the mountains. The women are both well-versed in the local real estate market, and they are always on the lookout for new opportunities to invest in the property. They are both active members of the community, and they are always looking for ways to give back to the people who live there.

The apartment complex is also home to a number of interesting and unusual tenants, who add to the complexity of their lives. There is the eccentric old man who collects antique china, and the young couple who are always fighting and breaking up, and the young artist who paints surrealistic murals on the walls of their apartment. There is also the retired professor who teaches a class in ancient art, and the schoolteacher who is always struggling to keep her students interested in their studies.

The women are both passionate about their work, and they are always looking for new ways to improve the lives of their clients. They are both well-known for their dedication and their persistence, and they are always willing to go the extra mile to get the job done. They are both loved by their colleagues and their clients, and they are both respected for their intelligence and their integrity.
