505600X THE MAYORS: The Chicago Political Tradition. Ed. by P.M. Green & M.G. Holli. A collection of essays focused on 13 of the most important mayors of the last century in Chicago. What emerges is the fact that the key to the mayor's office is power—the power to reward, the power to punish—that comes from the leverage gained from occupying the fifth floor of City Hall in Chicago. 256 pages. $12.95 SIIUP Pub. at $29.95

OH, FLORIDA! How America’s Weirdest State Influences the Rest of the Country. By Craig Pittman. Florida attracts 90 million visitors a year, some drawn to its impressive natural beauty, others bewitched by its man-made fantasies. The author delves into the state’s idiosyncrasies, from being touted as a carefree paradise to being known for its perils such as alligators, sinkholes, hurricanes and more, that make it a state that produces trends that end up influencing the rest of the country. Well illus., some in color. 320 pages. St. Martin’s. Pub. at $26.99 $9.95 6932622

5696973 WICKED RIVER: The Mississippi When It Last Went Wild. By Robert Spanier. When the Mississippi River last went wild—1881—most historians portray the great river as having been tamed, with levees and dams engineered to control the mighty stream. But Spanier breaks the mold. Delving into the history of the river from its sources to the Gulf of Mexico, he shows how the river has always been a chief player in the social, economic, and political development of the United States, and how much of that development was due to the river’s capricious nature. A riveting narrative that is also an exploration of the river’s role in history and culture. 347 pages. River Books. Pub. at $16.95 $9.95

570803X SOUTHERN PLANTATIONS: The South’s Grandest Homes. By Robin Spencer. Lattimore. Takes readers on a rich visual journey through several of the region’s most historic homes and the lush, fertile lands that once surrounded them.
