The age of entitlement: America since the Sixties. By Christopher Caldwell. Taking readers on a roller-coaster ride through history, this book covers CB radio, leveraged buyouts, iPhones, Oxycontin, Black Lives Matter, and internet cookies; Caldwell reveals how the real political turning points of the past half century have left many Americans feeling alienated, despised and misled, ready to put an end to what they call America's breakdown.

Lincoln on the verge: Thirteen Days to Washington. By Ted Widmer. This New York Times Bestseller reveals the tension between the president-elect and a nation's leaders in the closing days of the Civil War. Widmer's riveting account reveals the president-elect as a work in progress, showing him on the verge of greatness, foiling an assassination attempt, and forging an unbreakable bond with the American people. Widmer tells the story of the greatest president and the formidable obstacles he overcame in order to take the oath of office. Illus. 606 pages. S&S. Paperbound. Pub. at $28.00 $17.95

Lincoln and the Irish: The Untold Story of How the Irish Helped Abraham Lincoln Save the Union. By Niall O'Dowd. When Pickett charged at Gettysburg, it was the all-Irish Pennsylvania 69th who held fast while the surrounding regiments broke and ran. O'Dowd gives unprecedented insight into a relationship that began with mutual distrust. But the dynamic would evolve, and the Lincoln whose first political actions included intimidating Irish voters at the polls would eventually hire Irish nannies and donate to the Irish famine fund.

The age of entitlement: America since the Sixties. By Christopher Caldwell. Revealing what life is like after the presidency, Bootucky chronicles the lives of former presidents, Jimmy Carter, the late George H.W. Bush, Bill Clinton, George W. Bush, Barack Obama, and first ladies, in a nation that has been upended by the Oval Office's current, norm breaking occupant. President Donald Trump has led a presidency of firsts in color. 355 pages. S&S. Paperbound. Pub. at $29.00 $17.95

Dark quadrant: Crimes of the Century, the Corruption of American Democracy. By Jonathan Marshall. Without denying President Trump's assault on traditional ethical and legal norms, the author offers the proposition that it is not the golden age of American democracy. He tells of the shocking story of how well-protected criminals systematically organized the corruption of American history in the latter years of the 20th century. 401 pages. Rowman & Littlefield. The AD 312 Battle of the Milvian Bridge marked the start of a monumental change for Rome and her empire. This battle, according to tradition, was fought between Emperor Constantine and his rival Maxentius. The victory of Constantine over Maxentius is often seen as a turning point in the history of the Roman Empire, as it marked the beginning of the Christianization of the empire. The battle is also significant because it is said to have resulted in a visionary experience for Constantine, in which he saw a cross in the sky with the words "in hoc signo vinces" (in this sign you will conquer). This experience is often interpreted as a divine endorsement of Constantine's reign and his commitment to Christianity. The battle had far-reaching consequences, leading to the establishment of Christianity as the official religion of the Roman Empire and the eventual spread of Christianity throughout the world.
