5867272 PETS, PEOPLE, AND PRAGMATISM. By Erin McKenna. McKenna examines human relationships with pets without assuming that such relationships are either benign or unnatural and to be avoided. The volume addresses a lack of respect in people-pet relationships: for respectful relationships to be possible, humans must make the effort to understand the beings with which we live, work, and play. Photos. 247 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $30.00

5867533 BETWEEN FORM AND EVENT: Machiavelli's Theory of Political Freedom. By Mikel Matter. Argues that Machiavelli's understanding of political freedom presupposes a paradigm from the classical virtue of acting in correspondence to what the times demand to the modern ideal of going against paradigm. Explicating these works with reference to the thought of Martin Heidegger, Jean-Luc Marion, Hannah Arendt, and Emmanuel Levinas, the author discusses loss, violence, witness, and responsibility. Photos. 175 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $50.00

5869863 TEMPORALITY & TRUST. By Peter Manchester. Argues that there is a deep homology between the roles of temporal problematic in Augustine's On Trinity and Heidegger's Being and Time. 156 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $30.00

5869730 PHILOSOPHY AND THE JEWISH QUESTION: Menken, Rosenzweig, and Beyond. By Bruce Rosenstock. In making the Jewish "question," Rosenstock addresses the existential questions facing all. 375 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $80.00

5868548 THE HUMAN EROS. By Thomas M. Alexander. Western philosophy has not provided adequate conceptual models for thinking erotic desire as a form of "eco-ontology" to explore ways in which this might be done. He argues for the centrality of John Dewey's thought to an effective ecological philosophy of desire. 436 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $40.00

5865530 CONFLICTS, RAWLSS, AND THE SENSE OF JUSTICE. By Erin M. Cline. Compares the role of a sense of justice to that of aesthetic nature as distinct from the culture acquired by practice. It founds an anthropology of difference between force and faculty, justice and beauty. 111 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $30.00

5859409 AMBIGUITY AND THE ABSOLUTE. By Frank Chouraqui. In this thorough examination of both Nietzsche's and Merleau-Ponty’s arguments on truth, Chouraqui suggests that both thinkers’ inability to resist the illusion of truth and their desire to be conceived of as being the process of self-falsification by which indeterminate being presents itself as determinate. 304 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $30.00

5857740 KANTIAN CONCEPTUAL GEOGRAPHY. By Nathanial Jason Goldberg. Explores issues in analytic epistemology, philosophy of language, and metaphysics in particular by appealing to theses drawn from Immanuel Kant's Critique of Pure Reason. 271 pages. Oxford. Pub. at $70.00

5862584 SELECTED WRITINGS ON SELF-ORGANIZATION, PHILOSOPHY, BIOETHICS, AND JUDAISM. By Judit J. Atlan. Drawing from a massive oeuvre that ranges from biophysics to philosophy to Jewish mysticism, this volume encapsulates Atlan's powerful philosophical argumentation, as hostile to sciencism as it is attuned to biology's experimental rigor. 462 pages. Oxford. Paperbound. Pub. at $45.00

5894525 RESPONDING TO LOSS: Heideggerian Reflections on Literature, Architecture, and Film. By Robert Mugerauer. Mugerauer examines three works that call on us to respond to loss: Cormac McCarthy's The Crossing, David Lynch's Wachowskis' Immortal Films of Desire. Explicating these works with reference to the thought of Martin Heidegger, Jean-Luc Marion, Hannah Arendt, and Emmanuel Levinas, the author discusses loss, violence, witness, and responsibility. Photos. 175 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $50.00

5898037 SOPHISTICAL PRACTICE: Toward a Critical Theology of Reason. By Barbara Cassin. Sophistic is the paradigm of a discourse that does things with words. It is not purely rhetoric, as Plato suggests, but it provides an alternative model of transculturalism. Contributing to the debate among pluralism, unitarism, and pragmatism, this study proposes a new paradigm for the human sciences. 370 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $35.00

5889707 THE OPEN PAST: Subjectivity and Remembering in the Talmud. By Sagye Dolgovski. When time originates from its relationship to the future, then the past can only be a fictitious historical moment, a way of starting a point. This way permeated the study of the Talmud, resulting in the application of a handful of modern philosophical categories. This study of the challenges that apply. 179 pages. Fordham. Paperbound. Pub. at $30.00
