7947143 BELOW THE EDGE OF DARKNESS: A Memoir of Exploring Light and Life in the Deep Sea, By Edith Widder. A pioneering marine biologist takes us down into the deep ocean to understand bioluminescence—the language of light that helps life communicate in the darkness—and what it tells us about the future of life on Earth. 18 pages of color photos. 329 pages. Random. Pub. at $28.00

★ 7817207 LAPIDARIUM: The Secret Lives of Stones. By Hettie Judah. Inspired by the lapidaries of the ancient world, this beautiful collection of true stories about 60 different stones that have shaped and influenced our shared history. Through the realms of art, myth, geology, philosophy, and power, the story of humanity can be told through the minerals and the materials that allowed us to evolve and create. Illus. 336 pages. Penguin. Pub. at $30.00

7884230 EATING TO EXTINCTION: The World’s Rarest Foods and Why We Need To Save Them. By Dan Saladin. Shows that when food becomes endangered, we risk the loss of not only traditional foodways, but also flavors, smells, and the textures that may never be experienced again. And the power of photosynthesis: to recover ecosystems, stabilize the climate, and grow more food sustainably. On this vivid journey, you’ll see how every seed contains the key to our future, through the photosynthesis of our planet. Illus. 238 pages. The Experiment. Hardcover. At $28.00

7849593 SUPER CITIES ON, UNDER, AND BEYOND THE EARTH: Habitation, Powering, and Transporting the Urban Crowds of the Future. By Jeff Dono dor. Dono dor imagines the Super Cities of the future and explores the ways in which they can be sustainably built. The book will move masses of people without cars, how people will be fed and where the waste will go, and how we will move to cities underground, under the sea, in the atmosphere, into space, and out to other planets. 283 pages. Rowman & Littlefield. At $32.00

7873713 ONCE UPON A TIME WE ATE ANIMALS: The Future of Food. By Roanne Cocoa. Cocoa imagines the food system of the future and what we can lose if we don’t act quickly to save it. 350 pages. Bold Type. At $25.00

7892894 FIRE AND FLOOD: A People’s History of Climate Change, from 1979 to the Present. By Eugene Linden. Focuses on the malign power of key business interests, arguing that those interests could tip the story very quickly—if they can get ahead of looming economic catastrophe. Shows how devilishly effective moneyed climate-change deniers have been at slowing even increasingly violent flooding, fires, or some other unnatural disasters. A portrait of a city whose unique culture might soon succumb to a watery death if we don’t act quickly to save it. 305 pages. Bold Type. At $25.00

7844642 HURRICANE LIZARDS AND PLASTIC SQUID: The Fraught and Fascinating Biology of Climate Change. By Thor Hanson. Reveals that plants and animals do whatever it takes to survive. Hanson details how sea turtle populations are threatened by adjusting, evolving, and sometimes dying out. Climate change is a thing of paradoxical wonder and unprecedented biological insight. Illus. 290 pages. Norton. Hardcover. At $28.00

7843083 NOWHERE LEFT TO GO: How Climate Change Is Driving Species to the Ends of the Earth. By Benjamin Von Brakel. This book is a love letter to the otters, badgers, and rural wilderness and what we can lose if we don’t choose to protect it. 192 pages. Canongate. At $25.00
